AUGUST MONTHLY MEETING

Date: Tuesday, August 28, 2012

Time: Social time 6:30pm/Meeting 7:00pm

Location: Goins Auditorium, Pellissippi State Technical Community College

Our presenter this month is Lori Kincaid. Her program is titled "Photographing the Landscapes and Flora of the Southern Appalachians." The Southern Appalachians are ancient mountains characterized by deep forests, fast flowing streams, and unparalleled biodiversity...which often results in pure chaos viewed through the lens. More than 17,000 species have been documented in the Great Smoky Mountains alone, and scientists believe tens of thousands more have yet to be discovered there. Harboring this incredible diversity are various ecosystems ranging from spruce-fir forests to cove hardwood forests, from mountain bogs to grassy balds, and from high-elevation rock outcrops to low elevation rocky streamsides. Each ecosystem presents unique opportunities for the photographer, but each also presents unique challenges. Lori Kincaid will explore some of our mountain ecosystems and describe how to use light, composition and technique to harness the chaos while letting the wild beauty of the mountains shine through.

BIO

East Tennessee native Lori Kincaid threw away her engineering hat more than ten years ago to become a professional photographer and hasn't looked for it since. She specializes in the landscapes and flora of the Southern Appalachians where she thrives on hiking through rain, shine, sleet and snow in search of unique and artistic images that capture the beauty of the mountains and convey the peace and joy she finds in nature. Lori makes many of her photographs on 4x5 sheet film with an old-fashioned view camera, but she also employs 21st century digital technology when wind, light or other conditions dictate. Her photography appears regularly in premier photography publications such as Sierra Club and Audubon calendars, and has been featured in national and regional books, calendars, magazines, brochures, and exhibits. Lori holds photography workshops at her secluded mountaintop home near Max Patch on the Tennessee-North Carolina border, where she draws fresh inspiration each and every day.

Registration is required, and we must have a minimum of 12 people to make the trip a "go". To register, send an email to Kris.

Cave photography is an interesting alternative to the animals, wildflowers and landscapes that most of us are used to shooting. The fascinating geological formations in Cherokee Caverns range from massive columns, stalactites and stalagmites, flowstone, cave popcorn and bacon formations to the delicate and fragile soda straws, fuzzy anthodite crystals and gravity-defying helictites. We will have the opportunity to visit areas of the caverns that are not on the "public tours" given at various times of the year. The air temperature in the caverns is a constant 58 degrees, so a light jacket is advised. The main walkways are lit, but a headlamp or flashlight would be helpful for locating the smaller formations. No crawling or tight spaces will occur on this tour!

Equipment needed:

Camera

Tripod

Flashlight or headlamp

Jacket or sweater

Optional - Macro lens for tiny cave formations; telephoto for formations high on the ceiling

Knee pads in case of low, floor photography
